Please let us know for which territories you require permission (UK, Commonwealth, Europe, World, etc.,) and for which language(s). A. Any requests for electronic use of extracts should be sent in the same way as for print form.

Q. How long will the permissions process take?

A. Permissions to use images depends on the original source and the copyright holder.

Please read the following guidelines before submitting your request.

If the request material is in paperback, please check the copyright page at the front of the book for information indicating that another publisher previously published the title. In most cases you should apply for permission to the original publisher directly.

In certain cases we have to consult authors, literary agents or estates, and this might prolong the time of processing your request.

Please do not send duplicate requests.

To apply for permission to use material from Pen & Sword publications including Wharncliffe, Remember When, Seaforth and Frontline, please complete all the fields, on the permissions form, appropriate to your particular request. Please do not omit any information as this may cause delays in processing your request.
